

Mortality, Drinks and Discussion

“Being Mortal” is based on the best-selling novel by Boston surgeon Atul Gawande. Follow Dr. Gawande as he explores the end-of-life conversations among doctors, patients and their families. Following the film, you can participate in a discussion with a panel of experts concerning the issues people may face at the end-of-life and how to have the conversation that matters most about our wishes. Gawande: “I learned a lot of things in medical school, but mortality wasn’t one of them.”
